1 1 Introduction

A task that most Americans are frequently asked to engage in is to fill out government forms describing their status under some system of civil law. For instance:

- 1. They are asked to fill out tax forms describing their status. All tax liability is a civil liability which requires domicile within the forum in order to enforce.
- They are asked to fill out forms describing their marriage status. Jurisdiction over marriage originates from one's choice of domicile within the forum.
- They are asked to declare their citizenship status and domicile when they register to vote. The "right" to vote is actually a franchise that springs from one's choice of domicile.
- 4. They are asked to describe their citizenship status on jury summons forms when they report for jury service. Jury service is also a derivative franchise that originates from one's choice of domicile within the state in which one is acting as a juror.
- If they file a lawsuit against someone in court, they are expected to disclose their status and standing to entertain the suit in the civil complaint. Even if they have the right status, if they don't describe it properly in their complaint, their lawsuit may be dismissed.
- 6. When they fill out an application for a government benefit, they are required usually to declare that they are a "citizen" or "resident" of the civil laws of the government offering the benefit. What both of these two statuses have in common is that they require you to have a domicile within the forum. This is true, for instance, in the case of Social Security.
  20 CFR §422.104 requires that you MUST be a "citizen" or "permanent resident", both of whom have in common a domicile on federal territory that is no part of any state of the Union.
- 21 What all of the above occasions have in common is that they:
- 1. Relate to the CIVIL STATUTORY status of the applicant.
- Cannot and do not prescribe or impute any lawful civil status to a nonresident but only to those domiciled within the jurisdiction of the party offering the form.
- 25 3. Require a statement under penalty of perjury before a government official.
- 26 4. Constitute testimony of a witness.
- 5. Often constitute an act of political association that is protected by the First Amendment prohibition against compelled association.
- <sup>29</sup> 6. Are an exercise of your sovereignty in declaring the status most desirable and advantageous to you.
- Are often also an exercise of your right to contract. When you sign up for a benefit or a franchise such as Social Security, you are signing a contract because all franchises are contracts between the grantor and the grantee:

32	As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon
33	valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit, <sup>1</sup> and thus a franchise
34	partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is
35	subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be
36	granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in
37	exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But
38	when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental
39	control growing out of its other nature as publici juris. <sup>2</sup>
40	[Am.Jur.2d, Franchises, §4: Generally]

- <sup>41</sup> This document will prove that you have an unalienable right in declaring your civil AND statutory status:
- 1. To not to be coerced or intimidated or subject to duress in any way.
- 43 2. To invalidate and render inadmissible anything you signed in the presence of duress when it was signed under penalty 44 of perjury.
- 45 3. To not be called "frivolous" or be over-ruled by any judge or jury.

- 4. To define the meaning of all words appearing on government forms, regardless of how the government defines them.
- 2 5. To demand proof of consent to any status that the government seeks to enforce against you.
- 6. If you are completing a government form that creates any rights by anyone, you have a right:
- 4 6.1. Not to be compelled to contract or not to contract.
  - 6.2. To make your consent contingent on a specific prerequisite.
    - 6.3. To expect MUTUAL obligations on the part of both you and the grantor of the benefit.

- 8 The use of the term "status" in this memorandum:
- 9 1. Is associated with the domicile of the party in question. Before one may have any kind of civil status, one must:
  - 1.1. Have a domicile or residence within the forum or jurisdiction in question.
    - 1.2. Have legal evidence of said domicile admissible in court to prove the domicile they claim.
  - 1.3. Acquire statutory "citizen" under the civil laws of the place by virtue of choosing a domicile within that place.
- 13 2. Relates exclusively to the civil status of a party under the CIVIL STATUTORY laws of a specific jurisdiction.
  - 2.1. Civil statutory laws only pertain to those consensually domiciled within the forum or jurisdiction.
    - 2.2. They may not be enforced against non-residents or those not domiciled within the forum or jurisdiction unless the non-resident satisfies the "Minimum Contacts Doctrine" spoken of by the U.S. Supreme Court in International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945).
- Does NOT relate to the CRIMINAL laws. Criminal laws do not attach to the status of the parties or to their consent in any way. Instead, they attach at the point when a harmful act is committed against a specific party on the territory to which said law attaches.

Below is an example of the above, from the U.S. Supreme Court. The "status" spoken in this case of is that of being "married" under the laws of a specific state:

"To prevent any misapplication of the views expressed in this opinion, it is proper to observe that we do not mean to assert, by any thing we have said, that a State may not authorize proceedings to determine the status of one of its citizens towards a non-resident, which would be binding within the State, though made without service of process or personal notice to the non-resident. The jurisdiction which every State possesses to determine the civil status and capacities of all its inhabitants involves authority to prescribe the conditions on which proceedings affecting them may be commenced and carried on within its territory. The State, for example, has absolute 735*735 right to prescribe the conditions upon which the marriage relation between its own citizens shall be created, and the causes for which it may be dissolved. One of the parties guilty of acts for which, by the law of the State, a dissolution may be granted, may have removed to a State where no dissolution is permitted. The complaining party would, therefore, fail if a divorce were sought in the State of the defendant; and if application could not be made to the tribunals of the complainant's domicile in such case, and proceedings be there instituted without personal service of process or personal notice to the offending party, the injured citizen would be without redress. Bish. Marr. and Div., sect. 156." [Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U.S. 714 (1878)]

In law, all rights are property. Hence, "civil rights" attach to the CIVIL STATUTORY STATUS of a "person":

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right to possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man's courtesy.

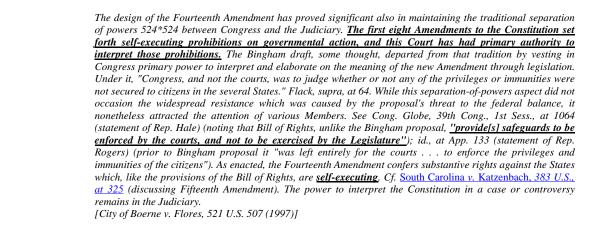

- The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.
- Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership. or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes

14 15 16	Those who do not have a domicile in a specific municipal jurisdiction are regarded as "non-residents", and hence, they have no "civil status" or "status" under the "civil laws" of the jurisdiction they are non-resident in relation to. An example of this phenomenon is found in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), in which jurisdiction is described as follows:
17	W DADTIES > D.J. 17
17	IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
18	Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity
19	(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.
20	Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:
21	(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
22	(2) for a corporation[the "United States", in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the
23	corporation], by the law under which it was organized flaws of the District of Columbia]; and
24	(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
25	(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
26	or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
20	or laws; and
	(B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue
28 29	or be sued in a United States court.
30	[SOURCE: http://www.law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/Rule17.htm]
31	A person with no domicile within federal territory, based on the above:
32	1. Has no capacity to sue or be sued in federal court under the CIVIL statutes of the national government.
33	2. Has no "status" or "civil status" under any federal civil statute, including:
34	2.1. "person".
35	2.2. "individual".
36	3. Is not a statutory "citizen" under federal law such as 26 U.S.C. §3121(e) and 26 CFR §1.1-1(c), but rather a "non-
37	resident" and statutory "alien" in relation to the national government.
38	An example of a "status" that one not domiciled on federal territory cannot lawfully have is that of statutory "taxpayer" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14). All tax liability is a CIVIL liability which attaches to a CIVIL statutory status:
39	defined in 20 0.3.C. §7701(a)(14). An tax habinty is a CIVIL habinty which attaches to a CIVIL statutory status.
40 41	TITLE 26 &gt; Subtitle F &gt; CHAPTER 79 &gt; § 7701 § 7701. Definitions

44	(14) Taxpayer
45	The term "taxpayer" means any person subject to any internal revenue tax.

In a sense then, all civil statutory law acts as the equivalent of a "protection franchise" that you have to consent to before you become party to. "Privileges" under the protection franchise attach to the status of "citizen". Those who are nonresidents are not parties to the franchise contract and are not bound by the franchise contract:

There is but one law which, from its nature, needs unanimous consent. This is the social compact; for civil 4 5 association is the most voluntary of all acts. Every man being born free and his own master, no one, under any pretext whatsoever, can make any man subject without his consent. To decide that the son of a slave is born a 6 slave is to decide that he is not born a man. 7 If then there are opponents when the social compact is made, their opposition does not invalidate the 8 contract, but merely prevents them from being included in it. They are foreigners among citizens. When the 9 State is instituted, residence constitutes consent; to dwell within its territory is to submit to the Sovereign. 10 11 Apart from this primitive contract, the vote of the majority always binds all the rest. This follows from the contract itself. But it is asked how a man can be both free and forced to conform to wills that are not his own. 12 13 How are the opponents at once free and subject to laws they have not agreed to? 14 I retort that the question is wrongly put. The citizen gives his consent to all the laws, including those which are passed in spite of his opposition, and even those which punish him when he dares to break any of them. 15 The constant will of all the members of the State is the general will; by virtue of it they are citizens and free<sup>21</sup> 16 When in the popular assembly a law is proposed, what the people is asked is not exactly whether it approves or 17 rejects the proposal, but whether it is in conformity with the general will, which is their will. Each man, in 18 giving his vote, states his opinion on that point; and the general will is found by counting votes. When therefore 19 the opinion that is contrary to my own prevails, this proves neither more nor less than that I was mistaken, and 20 that what I thought to be the general will was not so. If my particular opinion had carried the day I should have 21 22 achieved the opposite of what was my will; and it is in that case that I should not have been free. 23 This presupposes, indeed, that all the qualities of the general will still reside in the majority: when they cease to do so, whatever side a man may take, liberty is no longer possible. 24 In my earlier demonstration of how particular wills are substituted for the general will in public deliberation, I 25 26 have adequately pointed out the practicable methods of avoiding this abuse; and I shall have more to say of them later on. I have also given the principles for determining the proportional number of votes for declaring 27 that will. A difference of one vote destroys equality; a single opponent destroys unanimity; but between equality 28 and unanimity, there are several grades of unequal division, at each of which this proportion may be fixed in 29 accordance with the condition and the needs of the body politic. 30 There are two general rules that may serve to regulate this relation. First, the more grave and important the 31 questions discussed, the nearer should the opinion that is to prevail approach unanimity. Secondly, the more the 32 matter in hand calls for speed, the smaller the prescribed difference in the numbers of votes may be allowed to 33 become: where an instant decision has to be reached, a majority of one vote should be enough. The first of these 34 two rules seems more in harmony with the laws, and the second with practical affairs. In any case, it is the 35 combination of them that gives the best proportions for determining the majority necessary. 36 [The Social Contract or Principles of Political Right, Jean Jacques Rousseau, 1762, Book IV, Chapter 2] 37 There is one last very important point we wish to make. That point is that the civil statutory laws and the domicile they 38 attach to are not the ONLY method of civilly protecting one's rights. Some types of civil protection do not require consent 39 of party. For instance, the U.S. Constitution is an example of a limitation upon government that does NOT require the 40 41 express consent of those who are protected by it. 1. The USA Constitution is a "compact" or contract. 42 It establishes a public trust, which is an artificial "person" in which: 2. 43 2.1. The corpus of the trust is all public rights and public property. 44 2.2. The trustees of the trust are people working in the government. 45 2.3. All constitutional but not statutory citizens are the "beneficiaries". 46 3. The parties who established this public trust are the States of the Union and the government they created. Individual 47 human beings are NOT party to it or trustees under it: 48 The Bill of Rights portion of the constitution attaches to LAND protected by the constitution, and NOT the civil status 4. 49 of people ON the land: 50 "It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, 51 and not the status of the people who live in it." 52 [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)] 53

The Bill of Rights is a "self executing" restraint upon all government officers and agents upon all those physically 5. present but not necessarily domiciled on the land it attaches to. Because the rights it covers are "self-executing", no 2 statutory civil law is needed to give them "the force of law" against any officer of the government in relation to a 3 person physically present upon the

Those injured by the actions of the government, whether civilly domiciled there and therefore a "citizen" there OR NOT, 22 are protected by the Bill of Rights and have standing to sue in ANY state or federal court for a violation of that right. 23

State's first duty is to protect the "status" of its own citizens 3 24

- The reason for establishing all free governments is to protect PRIVATE rights. The very FIRST step in protecting 25 PRIVATE rights is to: 26
- Prevent PRIVATE rights from being involuntarily connected with or converted to PUBLIC rights and franchises by the 27 1. government. 28
- Protect the STATUS of PRIVATE human beings. All public rights and franchises attach to a statutory status, and 29 2. imputing a PUBLIC status such as a "public officer" or government "employee" to anyone against their will therefore 30 constitutes THEFT of PRIVATE property and eminent domain directed at such property. 31
- Consistent with the above, below are some cites that demonstrate this concept fr: 32

36	"It is elementary that each state may determine the status of its own citizens. Milner v. Gatlin [139 Ga. 109,

39	dominion over the legal situs must be present before a court can presume to adjudicate a status, and in cases
40	involving the custody of children it is usually essential that their actual situs as well be within the jurisdiction of
41	the court before its decree will be accorded extraterritorial recognition."
42	[Boor v. Boor, 241 Iowa 973, 43 N.W.2d. 155 (Iowa, 1950)]
43	"These parties, as man and wife, were domiciled in Pennsylvania. The husband went to Yucatan, Mexico, and

46	domicile to her husband's alleged new abode."
47	[Commonwealth v. Neal, 15 D.&C. 430 (Pa. D. & C., 1930)]
	[Commonwealin v. Neal, 15 D. dec. 450 (1 a. D. d c., 1750)]
48	It is also important to point out the very ESSENCE of one's sovereignty is, in fact, not only their STATUS, but their
49	absolute RIGHT to declare and establish what it is.
49	absolute KIGHT to declate and establish what it is.

Sovereignty. 1) the state or quality of being sovereign 2) the status, dominion, rule, or power of a sovereign 3) supreme and independent political authority 4) a sovereign state or governmental unit. [Webster's New World Dictionary, 3rd College Ed.(1988), page 1283]

In fact, we would argue that the right to declare and establish one's civil status is the method by which one exercises their 1 absolute right to contract and associate, because the product of contracting and associating is the establishment of a 2

particular status under a civil contract and the civil laws of a specific jurisdiction. 3

Effect of acting in a representative capacity upon the civil "status" of a party 4 4

Another very important consideration is the effect that operating in a representative capacity has on the civil "status" of a 5 party. This section will thoroughly examine this subject. 6

All "rights" in civil law attach to statutory "persons". Before one can have "rights", they must become a "person" by 7 choosing a civil domicile within the jurisdiction of the municipality that enacted the civil law which they are enforcing. 8 Statutory "persons" are of two types: 0

- Human beings called "natural persons". 1. 10
- Artificial "persons" such as corporations, trusts, Limited Liability Companies (LLCs), or estates. 2. 11
- Artificial "persons" must be created under the civil laws of a specific jurisdiction. For instance, all states within the United 12 States of America: 13
- 1. Have statutes regulating the creation of PUBLIC corporations. 14
- 2. Have a specific filing procedure that must be followed in order to be recognized by the state as a corporation and 15 therefore an artificial "person". 16
- 3. Allow for the issuance of "business licenses" to those entities that are not PUBLIC corporations. 17
- 4. Have an office dedicated to verifying the lawful existence of PUBLIC corporations. Namely, the Secretary of State. 18
- 5. Have an office in the local municipality that verifies the lawful existence of a licensed business that is NOT a PUBLIC 19 corporation. 20

A trust or corporation may still lawfully be established WITHOUT either licensing or incorporating. This would be done 21

by recording an "Affidavit of Trust" with the County Recorder. Such an artificial "person" would therefore be regarded as 22

EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and therefore beyond the ability to regulate or directly control by the state or municipality. 23

This brings us to another important subject. There are TWO types of "persons" under the civil law: PUBLIC persons and 24 PRIVATE persons: 25

PUBLIC persons: 1. 26

28

29

31

32

- 1.1. Are statutory creations of the government.
- 1.2. Are subject to regulation, taxation, and control by the government.
- 1.3. Are viewed as a "franchise" of the government subject to excise taxation.
- 2. PRIVATE persons: 30
  - 2.1. Are exclusively private.
  - 2.2. May not lawfully be regulated, taxed, or burdened by the civil laws of a place.

Below is an example of the dividing line between "PUBLIC" and "PRIVATE" persons: 33

34	When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an
35	individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the
36	preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants
37	with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the
38	common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and
39	exclusively private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of
40	laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure
41	another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere
42	tuo ut alienum non lædas. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice
43	Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent
44	in every sovereignty, that is to say, the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the
45	government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use
46	his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has been
47	customary in England from time immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate ferries,
48	common carriers, hackmen, bakers, millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a maximum of
49	charge to be made for services rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day, statutes are

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10	to be found in many of the States upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been successfully contended that such legislation came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against interference with private property. With the Fifth Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power upon the city of Washington "to regulate the rates of wharfage at private wharves, the sweeping of chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, and the weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and, in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 9 id. 224, sect. 2. [Munn. v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876), SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=6419197193322400931 ]
11	The important point to note about the above is that:
12	1. EXCLUSIVELY private rights and private property are beyond the civil control of government.
13	This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private,
14	Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143
15	[Munn. v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),

17	2. By declaring or associating yourself with a domicile within the jurisdiction of a specific government, you:
18	2.1. Select or nominate a specific protector.
19	2.2. Become a "citizen" and a "person" under the civil laws of that place.
20	3. As a "citizen", you implicitly consent and covenant to be protected by and therefore "governed" and bound by the civil
21	laws of that place. This produces a waiver of sovereign immunity which also causes a surrender of otherwise
22	EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights.
23	"When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an
24	individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain."
25	[Munn. v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),
26	SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=6419197193322400931 ]
27	All civil societies are run by "compact" and therefore contract and their civil laws "activate" and thereby "acquire the force
28	of law" AGAINST YOU PERSONALLY only by your consent in choosing a civil domicile. The status you voluntarily
29	declare and consent to is how you "contract" with and associate with specific municipal governments for protection.

35	Note from the above the use of the terms "compacts" and "covenants", which are contracting terms:
36	"Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working
37	agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties,
38	which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties,
39	in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or
40	right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause;
41	Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty."
42	[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]
43	By agreeing to act in representative capacity on behalf of an artificial entity such as a corporation, trust, or LLC, you:
	1 Implicitly consent to all civil statuses associated with the entity you represent
44	1. Implicitly consent to all civil statuses associated with the entity you represent.
45	2. Implicitly consent to the civil laws associated with the specific place and associated government:
46	2.1. Where the PUBLIC entity such as a corporation was created.
47	2.2. Where the formerly PRIVATE entity was registered or licensed.
48	An example of item 2 above is found in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b)(2), in which is established the requirement
49	that all corporations assume the civil domicile of the place where they were originally incorporated and thereby created:

IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.

1	Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity
2	(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.
3	Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:
4	(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
5	(2) for a corporation[the "United States", in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the
6	corporation], by the law under which it was organized [laws of the District of Columbia]; and
7	(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
8	(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue
9	or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution
10	or laws; and
11	(B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue
12	or be sued in a United States court.
13	[SOURCE: http://www.law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/Rule17.htm]
14	An example of the above phenomenon is found in the Corpus Juris Secundum legal encyclopedia:

"A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.' [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886]

Obviously, the above can only be referring to PUBLIC corporations rather than PRIVATE corporations, because the ability 18 to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights is repugnant to the constitution as held by the U.S. Supreme Court. 19

5 Relationship of Status to First Amendment Right of Free Association 20

Your right to declare your civil status is an extension of your right of free association and freedom from compelled 21 association protected by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution. 22

5.1 American Jurisprudence 2d 23

By declaring your status, for instance, as a "citizen", "resident", "taxpayer", etc., you are exercising your right to associate 24 politically with a group called a "state".

> "The right to associate or not to associate with others solely on the basis of individual choice, not being absolute, <sup>3</sup> may conflict with a societal interest in requiring one to associate with others, or to prohibit one from associating with others, in order to accomplish what the state deems to be the common good. The Supreme Court, though rarely called upon to examine this aspect of the right to freedom of association, has nevertheless established certain basic rules which will cover many situations involving forced or prohibited associations. Thus, where a sufficiently compelling state interest, outside the political spectrum, can be accomplished only by requiring individuals to associate together for the common good, then such forced association is constitutional. <sup>4</sup> But the Supreme Court has made it clear that compelling an individual to become a member of an organization with political aspects [such as a state or municipality], or compelling an individual to become a member of an organization which financially supports [through payment of taxes]. in more than an insignificant way, political personages or goals which the individual does not wish to support, is an infringement of the individual's constitutional right to freedom of association. ° The First Amendment prevents the government, except in the most compelling circumstances, from wielding its power to interfere with its employees' freedom to believe and associate, or to not believe and not associate; it is not merely a tenure provision that protects public employees from actual or constructive discharge. <sup>6</sup> Thus, First Amendment principles prohibit a state from compelling any individual to associate with a political party, as a condition of retaining public employment. <sup>7</sup> The First Amendment protects nonpolicymaking public employees from discrimination based on their political beliefs or affiliation.<sup>8</sup> But the First Amendment protects the right of political party members to advocate that a specific person be elected or appointed to a particular office and that a specific person be hired to perform a governmental function.<sup>9</sup> In the First Amendment context, the political patronage exception to the First Amendment protection for public employees is to be construed broadly, so as presumptively to encompass positions placed by legislature outside of "merit" civil service. Positions specifically named in relevant federal, state, county, or municipal laws to which discretionary authority with respect to enforcement of that law or carrying out of some other policy of political concern is granted, such as a secretary of state given statutory authority over various state corporation law practices, fall within the political patronage exception to First Amendment protection of public employees.<sup>10</sup> However, a supposed interest in ensuring effective government and efficient government employees, political affiliation or loyalty, or high salaries paid to the employees in question should not be counted as indicative of positions that require a particular party affiliation. [American Jurisprudence 2d, Constitutional law, §546: Forced and Prohibited Associations]

- Any of the following is an interference with your protected right of political affiliation:
- 20 1. Disregard evidence of your choice of domicile and "permanent address" on a government form.
- 2. Disregard your choice of which state or municipality you choose to be called a "citizen" or "resident" of.
- 3. Deciding over your objections that you are a member of a state or municipality called a "citizen" or a "resident" that
- you do not want to associate with, be protected by, or subsidize.

5.2 First Amendment Law in a Nutshell, West Group, pp. 266-267

The First Amendment Law in a Nutshell book confirms that freedom from compelled association is a crucial part of freedom of expression.

4		Just as there is freedom to speak, to associate, and to believe, so also there is freedom not to speak, associate,
5		or believe " The right to speak and the right to refrain from speaking [on a government tax return, and in
6		violation of the Fifth Amendment when coerced, for instance] are complementary components of the broader
7 8		concept of 'individual freedom of mind. " Wooley v. Maynard, [430 U.S. 703] (1977 ). Freedom of conscience dictates that no individual may be forced to espouse ideological causes with which he disagrees:
0		actues ina no inaviana may be forcea to esponse theological causes with which he assignees.
9		"[A]t the heart of the First Amendment is the notion that the individual should be free to believe as he will, and
10		that in a free society one's beliefs should be shaped by his mind and by his conscience rather than coerced by
11		the State [through illegal enforcement of the revenue laws]." Abood v. Detroit Board of Education [431 U.S.
12		209] (1977)
13		Freedom from compelled association is a vital component of freedom of expression. Indeed, freedom from
14		compelled association illustrates the significance of the liberty or personal autonomy model of the First
15		Amendment. As a general constitutional principle, it is for the individual and not for the state to choose
16		one's associations and to define the persona which he holds out to the world.
17		[First Amendment Law, Barron-Dienes, West Publishing, ISBN 0-314-22677-X, pp. 266-267]
18 19		tice the key phrase above about your right to declare your status, in which the word "persona" is synonymous with atus":
20 21		"As a general constitutional principle, it is for the individual and not for the state to choose one's associations and to define the persona which he holds out to the world."
22	6	Status declarations that make you party to contracts, franchises, or
	Ū
23		government "benefits"
24	The	e Constitution protects your right to contract by requiring that no state may enact any law that impairs your right to
25		itract.
26		United States Constitution
27		Article 1, Section 10
28		No State shall pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts.
29		or grant any Title of Nobility.
30	Imp	plicit in the meaning of "impair", includes the following:
31	1.	Dictating the terms of the contract.
32	2.	Compelling either party to act as an agent of the state called a "public officer" under the terms of the contract against
33		their will. For instance, when you sell real property, the Federal Investment in Real Property Transfer Act, 26 U.S.C.
34		§§897 and 1445, requires the Buyer to withhold or deduct on the Seller an income tax and thereby to act as an assessor
35		and collector of income tax. Congress cannot delegate its authority to tax to a private citizen and it resides ONLY in
36		the legislative branch. That requirement can only pertain to public officers already serving in the legislative branch of
37		the government before they entertained a real estate transaction. See:
57	Ī	Income Taxation of Real Estate Sales, Form #05.044
		http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
38	3.	Compelling you to make a state a party to any aspect of a contract between otherwise private parties. This amounts to
39		theft of property, because all rights are property and the conveyance of rights under the agreement without
40	4	consideration is a theft of property.
41	4.	Compelling you to donate any portion of the consideration passing between the private parties to a public use, a public
42		purpose, or a public office within the government and thereby subject it to taxation. All sales taxes, in fact, occur only
43		on federal territory and the decision as a vendor to collect them amounts to consent to become a resident of federal
44	-	territory. See, for instance, California Revenue and Taxation Code, Section 6017.
45	5.	Refusing to enforce any provision of the contract that is not violative of the criminal law and therefore not already
46		unenforceable. This amounts to a violation of constitutionally protected rights through omission.

- 6. Compelling you to contract with the state or participate in any franchise, including, but not limited to:
  - 6.1. Social Security.
  - 6.2. Medicare.

- 6.3. Income taxes.
- 6.4. Sales taxes.
- 6.5. Property taxes.
- 6.6. Unemployment insurance.
- In support of the above, the U.S. Supreme Court has held the following: 8

9	"Surely the matters in which the public has the most interest are the supplies of food and clothing; yet can it be
10	that by reason of this interest the state may fix the price [impair the contract!] at which the butcher must sell his
11	meat, or the vendor of boots and shoes his goods? Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable
12	rights,-'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;' and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments
13	are instituted. That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these
14	limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it
15	for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes [donates it] it to a public use, he gives to the public a
16	right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon
17	payment of due compensation. "
18	[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

- An example of a status associated with a government franchise is the status of being "married": 19
- 20 1. The rights of the parties associated with that status attach to the marriage contract.
- 2. The marriage contract, in turn, is codified in the family code of the state. That code is subject to continual revision by 21 the legislature. 22
- The collection of all the rights affected by the contract is called a "res" by the courts: 3. 23

24		"It is universally conceded that a divorce proceeding, in so far as it affects the status of the parties, is an
25		action in rem. 19 Cor. Jur. 22, § 24; 3 Freeman on Judgments (5th Ed.) 3152. It is usually said that the
26		'marriage status' is the res. Both parties to the marriage, and the state of the residence of each party to the
27		marriage, has an interest in the marriage status. In order that any court may obtain jurisdiction over an action
28		for divorce that court must in some way get jurisdiction over the res (the marriage status). The early cases
29		assumed that such jurisdiction was obtained when the petitioning party was properly domiciled in the
30		jurisdiction. Ditson v. Ditson, 4 R. I. 87. is the leading case so holding; see, also, Andrews v. Andrews, 188 U.S.
31		14, 23 S.Ct. 237, 47 L.Ed. 366. ."
32		[Delanoy v. Delanoy, 216 Cal. 27, 13 P.2d 719 (CA. 1932)]
33	4.	The "res" is defined as follows:
34		Res. Lat. The subject matter of a trust or will. In the civil law, a thing; an object. As a term of the law, this
35		word has a very wide and extensive signification, including not only things which are objects of property, but
36		also such as are not capable of individual ownership. And in old English law it is said to have a general
37		import, comprehending both corporeal and incorporeal things of whatever kind, nature, or species. By "res,"
38		according to the modern civilians, is meant everything that may form an object of rights, in opposition to
39		"persona," which is regarded as a subject of rights. "Res," therefore, in its general meaning, comprises actions
40		of all kinds; while in its restricted sense it comprehends every object of right, except actions. This has reference
41		to the fundamental division of the Institutes that all law relates either to persons, to things, or to actions.
42		Res is everything that may form an object of rights and includes an object, subject-matter or status. In re
43		Riggle's Will, 11 A.D.2d. 51 205 N.Y.S.2d. 19, 21, 22. The term is particularly applied to an object, subject-
44		matter, or status, considered as the defendant in an action, or as an object against which, directly,
45		proceedings are taken. Thus, in a prize case, the captured vessel is "the res"; and proceedings of this
46		character are said to be in rem. (See In personam; In Rem.) "Res" may also denote the action or proceeding,
47		as when a cause, which is not between adversary parties, it entitled "In re".
48		[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1304-1306]
49	5.	The "res", or rights created by the marriage contract are created by mutual, voluntary, informed consent of the parties
50		to the contract, meaning the act of executing a valid marriage.
51	6.	A valid marriage usually requires a public ceremony, accompanied by witnesses, and which the parties attended
52		voluntarily and without duress. The presence of duress at the ceremony invalidates the contract and thereby destroys the "res".
53	-	the res.

The parties to the licensed marriage contract include the two spouses AND the government. An unlicensed marriage 54 7. 55 removes the State as party:

JUSTICE MAAG delivered the opinion of the court: This action was brought in April of 1993 by Carolyn and John West (grandparents) to obtain visitation rights with their grandson, Jacob Dean West. Jacob was born January 27, 1992. He is the biological son of Ginger West and Gregory West, Carolyn and John's deceased son...

5	However, this constitutionally protected parental interest is not wholly without limit or beyond regulation.
6	Prince v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 321 U.S. 158, 166, 88 L.Ed. 645, 64 S.Ct. 438, 442 (1944). "[T]he
7	state has a wide range of power for limiting parental freedom and authority in things affecting the child's
8	welfare." Prince, 321 U.S. at 167, 88 L.Ed. 645, 64 S.Ct. at 442. In fact, the entire familial relationship
9	involves the State. When two people decide to get married, they are required to first procure a license from
10	the State. If they have children of this marriage, they are required by the State to submit their children to
11	certain things, such as school attendance and vaccinations. Furthermore, if at some time in the future the
12	couple decides the marriage is not working, they must petition the State for a divorce. Marriage is a three-
13	party contract between the man, the woman, and the State, Linneman v. Linneman, 1 111. App. 2d 48, 50, 116
14	N.E.2d. 182, 183 (1953), citing Van Koten v. Van Koten, 323 Ill. 323, 326, 154 N.E. 146 (1926). The State
15	represents the public interest in the institution of marriage. Linneman, 1 Ill.App. 2d at 50, 116 N.E.2d. at
16	183. This public interest is what allows the State to intervene in certain situations to protect the interests of
17	members of the family. The State is like a silent partner in the family who is not active in the everyday
18	running of the family but becomes active and exercises its power and authority only when necessary to
19	protect some important interest of family life. Taking all of this into consideration, the question no longer is
20	whether the State has an interest or place in disputes such as the one at bar, but it becomes a question of timing
21	and necessity. Has the State intervened too early or perhaps intervened where no intervention was warranted?
22	This question then directs our discussion to an analysis of the provision of the Act that allows the challenged
23	State intervention (750 ILCS 5/607(b) (West 1996)).
24	[West v. West, 689 N.E.2d. 1215 (1998)]

Nearly all civil law passed by government may be enforced only against those engaged in "public conduct" as public officers within the government. This is exhaustively proven by the following:

- Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
- 29 2. Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
   30 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
- 31 3. Proof that There is a "Straw Man", Form #05.042 32 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

As the above authorities clearly demonstrate, nearly all civil laws passed by government are crafted in such a way that all the following statuses are synonyms for what is actually a "public office" within the government and describe the status of the office itself, rather than the human being holding said office or who is surety for said office:

- 1. "citizen" or "resident".
- 2. "person", "individual", "trust", or "estate".
- 38 3. Franchisee such as a "taxpayer" in the case of income taxes under I.R.C. Subtitle A.
- <sup>39</sup> 4. Franchisees such as "beneficiaries" within the Social Security Act.
- 5. "United States", which both 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) confirm is the government and not the geographical states of the Union.

42 43	TITLE 26 &gt; Subtitle F &gt; CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701. [Internal Revenue Code] Sec. 7701 Definitions
44 45	(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—
46	(9) United States
47 48	The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.
49	(10) State
50 51	The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

In the above sense, all forms governing franchises within the government represent an opportunity to contract with the government because they create opportunities for you to accept "benefits" and all the obligations or strings attached to the "benefits":

 arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

Since the Constitution forbids the government from compelling you to contract with them, then by implication, no one, and especially an officer of the government, may dictate your status on a government form in such as way that any of your Constitutionally protected rights are impaired or prejudiced in any way. If they do, they are engaged in theft and slavery in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause and the Thirteenth Amendment.

7 Compelled or Non-Consensual Changes to Your Status on Government Forms is a Tort

Those who are members of this ministry are required to refrain from submitting any government form, and especially tax forms. There are likely to be occasions where third parties may:

- 1. Attempt to compel members to submit a government form.
- 24 2. Attempt to determine what form is appropriate.
- 25 3. Attempt to dictate what may go on the form before it will be accepted.

Nearly all government forms are submitted under penalty of perjury, and especially tax forms. Consequently, if you are compelled to submit a government form containing information that you know is not true and to sign it under penalty of perjury, then the following criminal torts have occurred:

- 1. Witness tampering in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1512.
- <sup>30</sup> 2. Subornation of perjury in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1622.
- 31 3. Perjury in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§1001 and 1621.
- 4. Perjury in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1542 if the form is a passport application.

Below is an example of effective language we recommend that discourages others from trying to coach or advise you on what to put on a government form that is signed under penalty of perjury and which asks you about your citizenship status. This comes from our USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007:

36	"This form is provided as a mandatory attachment to U.S. Department of State form DS-11 in order to carefully
37	define my citizenship status and legal domicile. The attached DS-11 application is INVALID and not useful as
38	evidence in any legal proceeding WITHOUT this mandatory attachment also included in its entirety with no
39	information altered or redacted on either the DS-11 or this form by anyone other than me. The reason I am
40	attaching this form is to prevent surrendering my sovereign status by having my citizenship misconstrued as
41	that of a statutory " U.S. citizen " defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 . A statutory "U.S. citizen" cannot be a "foreign
42	sovereign" by virtue of their statutory citizenship as described in $28$ U.S.C. $$1603$ (b)(3). It is also a crime
43	pursuant to 18 U.S.C. $1542 , 18 U.S.C. $911 , 18 U.S.C. $1001 , and 18 U.S.C. $1621 to declare oneself to be a
44	statutory "U.S. citizen" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 when one has no evidence on which to base a reasonable
45	belief that they are and I don't ever want to be a criminal by saying anything on a government form that I know
46	either isn't true or which I can't prove with evidence is true. The submission of this form is therefore provided
47	at the advise of my counsel as an act of self-defense intended to protect my constitutional rights from being
48	injured by false presumptions , being compelled to engage in compelled association, or from having my legal
49	identity kidnapped and moved to the District of Columbia pursuant to $26 \text{ U.S.C. } $$7701(a)(39)$ and $7408(d)$
50	without my consent. DO NOT attempt to contact me to persuade me to change my citizenship or domicile status as documented on this form or to change any answer provided on the attached DS-11 form. Doing so will cause you to engage in a criminal conspiracy to tamper with a witness in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1512 and to violate 18 U.S.C. §1542 , 18 U.S.C. §911 , 18 U.S.C. §1001 , and 18 U.S.C. §1621 . The penalty for violating these statutes is up to 25 years in jail. If you have a problem with my status as documented herein, please in your response copy this form and complete Section 7 of this form."

7 8 Rebutting challenges to your declaration of status by the government

8.1 Presumptions by others about your status unsupported by evidence are a tort

Your civil status is how to define your rights and standing in relation to others. All presumptions by the government which impair constitutionally protected rights are unconstitutional:

12	A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-
13	protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a
14	party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 441, 449, 93 S.Ct. 2230,
15	2235; Cleveland Bed. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 US 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under
16	Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process]
17	[Rutter Group Practice Guide-Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, paragraph 8:4993, page 8K-34]

19	Statutes creating permanent irrebuttable presumptions have long been disfavored under the Due Process
20	Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. In Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312, 52 S.Ct. 358, 76 L.Ed.
21	772 (1932), the Court was faced with a constitutional challenge to a federal statute that created a conclusive
22	presumption that gifts made within two years prior to the donor's death were made in contemplation of death,
23	thus requiring payment by his estate of a higher tax. In holding that this irrefutable assumption was so arbitrary
24	and unreasonable as to deprive the taxpayer of his property without due process of law, the Court stated that it
25	had 'held more than once that a statute creating a presumption which operates to deny a fair opportunity to
26	rebut it violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.' Id., at 329, 52 S.Ct., at 362. See, e.g.,

8.2 Calling your declaration of status "frivolous"

Those who lawfully deprive the government of jurisdiction and revenues by choosing their status carefully and accurately and truthfully declaring that status under penalty of perjury on government forms can and often are accused of being "frivolous" and may even be unlawfully penalized for doing so. It is important to remember that:

- 1. All such accusations and reactions to your declaration of status cannot and do not affect your status in the least.
- The only thing that can effectively be used to challenge your declaration of status under penalty of perjury is a contradictory affidavit of equal or greater weight or authority signed under penalty of perjury by someone who has personal knowledge of your circumstances.
- If you penalized by a taxing authority, for instance, because they don't like your status declaration or the way you filled out a tax form, then we recommend using the following to respond:

If a court responds to your status declaration or determination by calling it "frivolous" or you expect that they will, we recommend the following resources:

Authorities on the Exclusive Right to Declare One's Civil Status 9 6

9.1 Corrigan v. Secretary of the Army, 211 F.2d. 293 (1954) 7

The following case deals with the military draft. Those who are drafted must undergo "induction" in order to change their 8 status from civil to military. The point at which that status change becomes effective is when they CONSENT to it by 9 voluntarily undergoing a ceremony and thereby consent to change their status. That ceremony can and usually is either an 10 act of stepping over a physical line or taking an oath, both of which are voluntary acts. Without these outward 11 manifestations of consent to voluntarily change one's status from civilian to military, those drafted are presumed to retain 12 their civilian status and not be under military jurisdiction. 13

Laughlin E. Waters, U.S. Atty., Max F. Deutz, Asst. U.S. Atty., and Clyde C. Downing, Asst. U.S. Atty., Los 14 Angeles, Cal., for appellees. 15 Before STEPHENS, BONE, and POPE, Circuit Judges. 16 STEPHENS, Circuit Judge. 17 Ronald J. Corrigan, Hereinafter called 'petitioner', upon relation of his mother, through a petition for the 18 issuance of the writ of habeas corpus, seeks his release from restraint of the United States Army officers who 19 20 hold him as a member of the United States Armed Services. A hearing was had on the petition, the return thereto and an order to show cause pursuant to stipulation that the return should be considered as a traverse 21 22 and that the proceedings should have the same force and effect that the issuance of the writ would have had, had it issued and had the hearing been held thereon. However, petitioner was present throughout the 23 proceedings. The court declined to order petitioner's release and instead dismissed the petition. Petitioner 24 appealed. 25 The issue of fact is whether petitioner was ever inducted into the Service. 26 On the 15th day of April, 1953, petitioner, having been regularly processed through the Selective Service law, 27 28 50 U.S.C.A. Appendix, §451 et seq., and declared a Selectee with the A-1 classification, was, with about fifty 29 Selectees, taken to a room around 9:00 A.M. where he was given physical and psychological examinations and 30 near the middle of the day, the fifty Selectees were directed to take places in folding chairs which had been placed out in the room. The chairs occupied a space about twelve by eighteen feet in rows twelve inches apart 31 32 with a center aisle the width of a chair. Petitioner was in the rear row. Captain Earl S. Beydler entered the room and gave them a short orientation talk and then addressed them as 33 follows: You are about to be inducted into the Armed Services of the United States. In just a moment I will 34 ask you to stand and I will call off each of your names. As I call you name I want you to answer 'present' 35 and to take one step forward. The step forward will constitute your induction into the Armed Services *295 of 36 the United States-into the Army.<sup>FNI</sup> The call was completed and the men were given the accustomed oath. 37 Petitioner claims that he did not take a step forward nor did he raise his hand and take the oath. However, he 38 made no protest at the time of the ceremony. 39 It is not contended that either the step forward or the taking or giving of the oath is required by the Selective 40 41 Service Act as necessary to induction. As said in Billings v. Truesdell, 1944, 321 U.S. 542, 559, 64 S.Ct. 737, 746, 88 L.Ed. 917; 'a selectee becomes 'actually inducted' within the meaning of § 11 of the Act <sup>FN2</sup> when in 42 43 obedience to the order of his board and after the Army has found him acceptable for service he undergoes whatever ceremony or requirements of admission the War Department has prescribed.' Therefore, since the 44 45 selectee is subject to civil authority until the moment of completion of the induction, at which moment he becomes subject to military authority, it is highly important that such moment should be marked with 46 certainty. See Billings v. Truesdell, 1944, 321 U.S. 542, 64 S.Ct. 737, 88 L.Ed. 917. 47 For a time the [voluntary] oath marked the dividing line between the civilian and military status, but difficulties 48 49 and uncertainties arose as to whether, in fact, the selectee had taken the oath. See our opinion in Lawrence v. Yost, 9 Cir., 1946, en banc, 157 F.2d. 44. Thereafter, the regulation (Army Special Regulation No. 615-180-1, 50 paragraph 23), providing for the step forward, was promulgated. 51

[1] However, one may emerge from a selectee to a soldier without taking the step forward; that is, by conduct consistent with the soldier status;<sup>EN3</sup> but the fact of the step forward, whether or not it was taken, is of high importance in this case. As to that issue of fact, it is claimed by petitioner that it was impossible for the men, other than those in the front row, to step forward and the physical set-up and the testimony practically demonstrate the truth of the claim. The inducting Captain testified in answer to a question as to space, 'There is space, not much.' 'Q. You mean he could shuffle? A. Correct.'

At no time does the inducting Captain claim that he saw petitioner take the step forward. As to the procedure, he testified on direct examination that when he calls a name at induction ceremonies, 'I wait for a response, ** * or if they are near the front of the room where I can see them, I see if they step forward.' Afterward, he would call the next name. 'Q. Did you at any time look to see if a man had taken a step forward? A. I look up each time I call a name. Q. What do you look for when you look up? A. For movement, for a man stepping forward. * ** Q. On that day did you see any man fail to step forward after his name was called by you? A. No.' On recross-examination, Captain Beydler was asked, 'Can you tell us that you recall whether or not you saw this petitioner move forward on April 15- after you called his name?' The Captain answered, 'No, I cannot.'

Petitioner testified that his mother and grandmother belonged to Jehovah's Witnesses; on re-cross-examination petitioner was asked, 'Were you a member of the enlisted reserves in the Army of the United States?' To which he replied in the affirmative. The record does not reveal how long or under what circumstances he was in such service. On *296 cross-examination, petitioner was asked, 'When did you become a conscientious objector?' Petitioner answered, 'While sitting in the room. I just thought. The material together, I would say, filled my mind, and this is one thing I wanted to do. * * * O. When your name was called did you take a step forward? A. No.' He also testified that some of the selectees shuffled their feet or didn't move when their names were called.

Petitioner on cross-examination was asked, 'When was the first time that you advised anybody in the Army that you were a conscientious objector? * * * A. After the ceremony. The Court: What do you mean 'after the ceremony'? The Witness: Well, after the ceremony was over, I thought- well, there isn't much use in making a scene, and I just walked outside and told the Captain in charge. * * * I told him I did not take (the) oath or step forward. * * * He says, 'No. You are in the Army.' * * O. Isn't it a fact that when you saw Captain Beydler, after leaving the induction room that you told him you had changed your mind, that you were now a conscientious objector? A. I didn't say 'I changed my mind', No, sir. * * I said 'I am'.'

Sergeant Frias, the chief coordinator at the induction station, testified that petitioner approached him on the floor of the induction room saying he was a conscientious objector. The Sergeant asked him if he had just been inducted and he answered 'Yes', to which the Sergeant responded, 'I said, 'It is too late. I can't do anything for you'.'

After that, according to petitioner's testimony, he made three telephone calls and then told a Sergeant, 'I am going home'. Petitioner further testified, 'I had some friends and I went over to see and talked with them. *** I went over to another friend's and stayed all night. *** I stayed another day and then I went on home.'

Petitioner did not respond to the call to board the bus for the railroad station the next morning, whereupon he was noted as an 'absentee'. Petitioner was forceably taken from his home by military personnel, put in the Post stockade at Camp Irwin, and then transported to Camp Roberts a few weeks thereafter. The court asked the witness, 'Have you been with that training company (at Camp Roberts) since? The Witness: No. That was a Thursday, and then Friday morning they took me to the orderly room and to the company commander and I refused the company commander('s suggestion that I submit to training). * * That was about 5:10. I went back to the M.P. lock-up at Camp Roberts. I stayed there until Sunday morning. Sunday morning- The Court: Yesterday? The Witness: Yes, yesterday at 10:45. And then I stayed at this M.P. lock-up Sunday and then here today. * * The Court: Did you ever tell the Colonel that, as long as you did not have to bear arms, you would be willing to undergo training? A. I told him I would not accept any training.'

[2] [3] We are of the opinion that the unnecessarily crowded set-up in the induction room made it physically impossible for the inducting officer to have seen whether petitioner took the step forward and that it was in fact impossible for petitioner to take a step forward. Therefore, we think, the court's finding on this factual issue was in error. The evidence reveals no act after the induction ceremonies from which it could be found that petitioner had in fact acquiesced in induction,  $^{FN4}$  but on the contrary his conduct is entirely consistent with his claim that he did not submit to induction, and is not consistent with any theory of acquiescence. However, the court made no finding on the subject of acquiescence.

[4] We hold that the evidence does not support the conclusion of the trial court that petitioner was inducted into the Armed Services of the United States. *297 The judgment is reversed and remanded with instructions to order petitioner's release from the custody of the Army officers.

Reversed and remanded.

29 30 31		The writ is dismissed, and, as the respondent's fitness for the care and control of the child is not questioned, it is remanded to her custody. [People ex rel. Campbell v. Dewey, 23 Misc. 267, 50 N.Y.S. 1013, N.Y.Sup. (1898)]
32	We can le	earn a lot from the above case:
33 34		osing a domicile is what makes you into a "subject" rather than a sovereign. In that sense, it causes a surrender of reign immunity:
35 36		"Every nation may determine the status of its own domiciled subjects, and any interference by foreign tribunals would be an officious intermeddling with a matter in which they have no concern."
37 38 39	choic	right to make determinations about or changes in the civil status of someone originates from one's voluntary ce of domicile. See the above. That authority is delegated to a specific government by your choice of domicile.
40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50		"It is plain that every state has the right to determine the status or domestic or social condition of persons domiciled within its territory." Hunt v. Hunt, 72 N. Y. 217, 227; Strader v. Graham, 10 How. 82. " Every nation may determine the status of its own domiciled subjects, and any interference by foreign tribunals would be an officious intermeddling with a matter in which they have no concern. The parties cannot consent to the change of status, and the judgment is not binding in a third country." Black, Jur. § 77. When the Texas proceeding was instituted the respondent and her child were transiently in that state, upon a temporary occasion, and with the intention of returning to their domicile in New York. "Though a state may have a right to declare the condition of all persons within her limits, the right only exists while that person remains there. She has not the power of giving a condition or status that will adhere to the person everywhere, but upon his return to his place of domicile he will occupy his former position." Maria v. Kirby, 12 B.Mon. 542, 545,- a case in which the decision is an adjudication of the precise point in controversy.

- 2.2. The authority of the government is delegated by we the people.
- 2.3. If you never delegate the authority to make declarations of status by choosing a domicile within any government, then you MUST have reserve it to yourself.
- 3. What makes a state or government "foreign" is the fact that you don't have a domicile within their jurisdiction. It is an intrusion into your sovereignty for a foreign state to determine your civil status.

"Every nation may determine the status of its own domiciled subjects, and any interference by foreign tribunals would be an officious intermeddling with a matter in which they have no concern."

When you are physically in a state or jurisdiction other than the one in which you are domiciled, the status declaration is nonbinding on the foreign jurisdiction that you are in.

<sup>10</sup> 9.3 U. S. v. Grimley, 137 U.S. 147, 11 S.Ct. 54, U.S. (1890)

11 This case describes how:

- 12 1. Consent conveyed in the making contracts works a change in one's status.
- No misrepresentation can undo the change in status made by the giving of consent unless the party injured by the misrepresentation takes advantage of it.
- Changes in status include marriage and enlistment in the military, which can only be undone by the consent of BOTH parties.

Grimly enlisted in the armed services and made a deliberate misrepresentation in the application and then tried to undo the contract using the misrepresentation. The party injured by the misrepresentation was the government, but because they did not take advantage of the misrepresentation to undo the contract, then Grimly couldn't either and had to honor the change in status. Grimly therefore was not able to undo the contract and had to do time in prison for desertion.

21	This case involves a matter of contractual relation between the parties; and the law of contracts, as applicable
22	thereto, is worthy of notice. The government, as contracting party, offers contract and service. Grimley
23	accepts such contract, declaring that he possesses all the qualifications prescribed in the government's offer.
24	The contract is duly signed. Grimley has made an untrue statement in regard to his qualifications.*151 The
25	government makes no objection because of the untruth. The qualification is one for the benefit of the
26	government, one of the contracting parties. Who can take advantage of Grimley's lack of qualification?
27	Obviously only the party for whose benefit it was inserted. Such is the ordinary law of contracts. Suppose A.,
28	an individual, were to offer to enter into contract with persons of Anglo-Saxon descent, and B., representing
29	that he is such descent, accepts the offer and enters into contract; can he thereafter, A. making no objection,
30	repudiate the contract on the ground that he is not of Anglo-Saxon descent? A. has prescribed the terms. He
31	contracts with B. upon the strength of his representations that he comes within those terms. Can B. thereafter
32	plead his disability in avoidance of the contract? On the other hand, suppose for any reason it could be
33	contended that the proviso as to age was for the benefit of the party enlisting, is Grimley in any better position?
34	The matter of age is merely incidental, and not of the substance of the contract. And can a party by false
35	representations as to such incidental matter obtain a contract, and thereafter disown and repudiate its
36	obligations 55 on the simple ground that the fact in reference to this incidental matter was contrary to his
37	representations? May he utter a falsehood to acquire a contract, and plead the truth to avoid it, when the
38	matter in respect to which the falsehood is stated is for his benefit? It must be noted here that in the present
39	contract is involved no matter of duress, imposition, ignorance, or intoxication. Grimley was sober, and of
40	his own volition went to the recruiting office and enlisted. There was no compulsion, no solicitation, no
41	misrepresentation. A man of mature years, he entered freely into the contract. But in this transaction something
42	more is involved than the making of a contract, whose breach exposes to an action for damages. Enlistment is a
43	contract, but it is one of those contracts which changes the status, and where that is changed, no breach of
44	the contract destroys the new status or relieves from the obligations which its existence imposes. Marriage is
45	a contract; but it is one which creates a status. Its contract *152 obligations are mutual faithfulness; but a
46	breach of those obligations does not destroy the status or change the relation of the parties to each other. The
47	parties remain husband and wife no matter what their conduct to each other,-no matter how great their
48	disregard of marital obligations. It is true that courts have power, under the statutes of most states, to
49	terminate those contract obligations, and put an end to the marital relations. But this is never done at the
50	instance of the wrong-door. The injured party, and the injured party alone, can obtain relief and a change of
51	status by judicial action. So, also, a foreigner by naturalization enters into new obligations. More than that, he
52	thereby changes his status; he ceases to be an alien, and becomes a citizen, and, when that change is once
53	accomplished, no disloyalty on his part, no breach of the obligations of citizenship, of itself, destroys his
54	citizenship. In other words, it is a general rule accompanying a change of status, that when once accomplished
55	it is not destroyed by the mere misconduct of one of the parties, and the guilty party cannot plead his own
56	wrong as working a termination and destruction thereof. Especially is he debarred from pleading the existence
57	of facts personal to himself, existing before the change of status , the entrance into new relations, which would
58	have excused him from entering into those relations and making the change, or, if disclosed to the other party, would have led it to decline admission into the relation, or consent to the change. By enlistment the citizen becomes a soldier. His relations to the state and the public are changed. He acquires a new status, with correlative rights and duties; and although he may violate his contract obligations, his status as a soldier is unchanged. He cannot of his own volition throw off the garments he has once put on, nor can he, the state not objecting, renounce his relations and destroy his status on the plea that, if he had disclosed truthfully the facts, the other party, the state, would not have entered into the new relations with him, or permitted him to change his status. Of course these considerations may not apply where there is insanity, idiocy, infancy, or any other disability which, in its nature, disables a *153 party from changing his status or entering into new relations.

But where a party is sui juris, without any disability to enter into the new relations, the rule generally applies as stated. A naturalized citizen would not be permitted, as a defense to a charge of treason, to say that he had acquired his citizenship through perjury, that he had not been a resident of the United States for five years, or within the state or territory where he was naturalized one year, or that he was not a man of good moral character, or that he was not attached to the constitution. No more can an enlisted soldier avoid a charge of desertion, and escape the consequences of such act, by proof that he was over age at the time of enlistment, or that he was not able-bodied, or that he had been convicted of a felony, or that before his enlistment he had been a deserter from the military service of the United States. These are matters which do not inhere in the substance of the contract, do not prevent a change of status, do not render the new relations assumed absolutely void; and in the case of a soldier, these considerations become of vast public importance. While our regular army is small compared with those of European nations, yet its vigor and efficiency are equally important. An army is not a deliberative body. It is the executive arm. Its law is that of obedience. No question can be left open as to the right to command in the officer, or the duty of obedience in the soldier. Vigor and efficiency on the part of the officer, and confidence among the soldiers in one another, are impaired if any question be left open as to their attitude to each other . So, unless there be in the nature of things some inherent vice in the existence of the relation, or natural wrong in the manner in which it was established,
public policy requires that it should not be disturbed. Now, there is no inherent vice in the military service of a man 40 years of age. The age of 35, as prescribed in the statute, is one of convenience merely. The government has the right to the military service of all its able-bodied citizens; and may, when emergency arises, justly exact that service from all. And if, for its own convenience, and with a view to the selection of the best material, it has fixed the age at 35, it is a matter *154 which in any given case it may waive; and it does not lie in the mouth of any one above that age on that account alone, to demand release from an obligation voluntarily assumed, and discharge from a service voluntarily entered into. The government, and the government alone, is the party to the transaction that can raise objections on that ground. We conclude, therefore, that the age of the petitioner was no ground for his discharge."

In this particular case, the litigants sued the government because they were having the liabilities of the status of "taxpayer" enforced against them. In response, the court essentially declared that they had consented to become "taxpayers" subject to the revenue acts by applying for a license. Thus the change in status from "nontaxpayer" to "taxpayer" was a consequence of their own voluntary act, required their consent, and thus could not be challenged by them.

"And here a thought suggests itself. As the Meadors, subsequently to the passage of this act of July 20, 1868, applied for and obtained from the government a license or permit to deal in manufactured tobacco, snuff and cigars, I am inclined to be of the opinion that they are, by this their own voluntary act, precluded from assailing the constitutionality of this law, or otherwise controverting it. For the granting of a license or permit-the yielding of a particular privilege-and its acceptance by the Meadors, was a contract, in which it was implied that the provisions of the statute which governed, or in any way affected their business, and all other statutes previously passed, which were in pari materia with those provisions, should be recognized and obeyed by them. When the Meadors sought and accepted the privilege, the law was before them. And can they now impugn its constitutionality or refuse to obey its provisions and stipulations, and so exempt themselves from the consequences of their own acts?"

The following case establishes that companies accepting withholding forms are not authorized to dishonor whatever the employee puts on the withholding form. They must honor the worker's claim or declaration of status without modification.

> "The Company is not authorized to alter the form [W-4 or its equivalent] or to dishonor the worker's claim. The certificate goes into effect automatically" [U.S. District Court Judge Huyett, United States v. Malinowski, 347 F.Supp. 352 (1992)]

2	[4] In all domestic concerns each state of the Union is to be deemed an independent sovereignty. As such, it is
3	its province and its duty to forbid interference by another state as well as by any foreign power with the status
4	of its own citizens. Unless at least one of the spouses is a resident thereof in good faith, the courts of such
5	sister state or of such foreign power cannot acquire jurisdiction to dissolve the marriage of those who have
6	an established domicile in the state which resents such interference with matters which disturb its social
7	serenity or affect the morals of its inhabitants. [5] Jurisdiction over divorce proceedings of residents of
8	California by the courts of a sister state cannot be conferred by agreement of the litigants. [6] As protector of
9	the morals of her people it is the duty of a court of this commonwealth to prevent the dissolution of a marriage
10	by the decree of a court of another jurisdiction pursuant to the collusion of the spouses. If by surrendering its
11	power it evades the performance of such duty, marriage will ultimately be considered as a formal device and its
12	dissolution freed from legal inhibitions. [7] Not only is a divorce of California [81 Cal. App. 2d 880] residents
13	by a court of another state void because of the plaintiff's lack of bona fide residence in the foreign state, but it is
14	void also for lack of the court's jurisdiction over the State of California. [8] This state is a party to every
15	marriage contract of its own residents as well as the guardian of their morals. Not only can the litigants by
16	their collusion not confer jurisdiction upon Nevada courts over themselves but neither can they confer such
17	jurisdiction over this state.
18	[9] It therefore follows that a judgment of divorce by a court of Nevada without first having pursuant to its own

[Roberts v. Roberts, 81 Cal.App.2d 871 [Civ. No. 15818. Second Dist., Div. Two. Oct. 17, 1947]

- <sup>21</sup> The above case illustrates that whenever you enter into a licensed transaction or request a license from the government:
- 1. You are entering into a contract with the government.
- 23 2. You consent to be subject to all the statutes that regulate those who hold such licenses.
- 24 3. The license creates property interests in both you and the government.
- 4. The state granting the license only has jurisdiction over the parties to the license so long as one or both are domiciled within the state that granted the license. Another way of saying this is that the grantor of the franchise is only required to recognize the change in status while the parties to the franchise are domiciled within their jurisdiction. Otherwise, the status change is not binding on the grantor of the franchise.

The federal Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201, allows federal courts to declare the rights and status of parties who petition for a declaratory judgment. It exempts from its jurisdiction your status under the tax code:

32	United States Code
33	TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
34	PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
35	CHAPTER 151 - DECLARATORY JUDGMENTS
36	Sec. 2201. Creation of remedy
37	(a) In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction, except with respect to Federal taxes other than
38	actions brought under section 7428 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, a proceeding under section 505 or
39	1146 of title 11, or in any civil action involving an antidumping or countervailing duty proceeding regarding a
40	class or kind of merchandise of a free trade area country (as defined in section $516A(f)(10)$ of the Tariff Act of
41	1930), as determined by the administering authority, any court of the United States, upon the filing of an
42	appropriate pleading, may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such
43	declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. Any such declaration shall have the force and
44	effect of a final judgment or decree and shall be reviewable as such.
45	Consistent with the federal Declaratory Judgments Act, federal courts who have been petitioned to declare a litigant to be
46	"taxpayer" have declined to do so and have cited the above act as authority:
47	Specifically, Rowen seeks a declaratory judgment against the United States of America with respect to "whether
48	or not the plaintiff is a taxpayer pursuant to, and/or under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)." (See Compl. at 2.) This
49	Court lacks jurisdiction to issue a declaratory judgment "with respect to Federal taxes other than actions
50	brought under section 7428 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986," a code section that is not at issue in the
51	instant action. See 28 U.S.C. §2201; see also Hughes v. United States, 953 F.2d. 531, 536-537 (9th Cir. 1991)
52	(affirming dismissal of claim for declaratory relief under § 2201 where claim concerned question of tax
53	liability). Accordingly, defendant's motion to dismiss is hereby GRANTED, and the instant action is hereby
54	DISMISSED.

[Rowen v. U.S., 05-3766MMC. (N.D.Cal. 11/02/2005)] 1 The implications of the above are that: 2 1. The federal courts have no lawful delegated authority to determine or declare whether you are a "taxpayer". 3 2. If federal courts cannot directly declare you a "taxpayer", then they also cannot do it indirectly by, for instance: 4 2.1. Presuming that you are a "taxpayer". 5 2.2. Calling you a "taxpayer" before you have called yourself one. 6 2.3. Arguing with you if you rebut others from calling you a "taxpayer". 7 2.4. Treating you as a "taxpayer" if you provide evidence to the contrary by enforcing any provision of the I.R.C. 8 Subtitle A "taxpayer" franchise agreement against you as a "nontaxpayer". 9 "Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [instrumentalities, officers, employees, and elected officials of the national 10 Government] and not to non-taxpayers [non-citizen nationals domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a 11 state of the Union and not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the national Government]. The latter are 12 without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of 13 their Rights or Remedies in due course of law. With them[non-taxpayers] Congress does not assume to deal 14 and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of federal revenue laws.' 15 [Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)] 16 Authorities supporting the above include the following: 17 "It is almost unnecessary to say, that what the legislature cannot do directly, it cannot do indirectly. The 18 stream can mount no higher than its source. The legislature cannot create corporations with illegal powers, nor 19 grant unconstitutional powers to those already granted." 20 [Gelpcke v. City of Dubuque, 68 U.S. 175, 1863 WL 6638 (1863)] 21 22 "Congress cannot do indirectly what the Constitution prohibits directly." 23 24 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 1856 WL 8721 (1856)] 25 26 "In essence, the district court used attorney's fees in this case as an alternative to, or substitute for, punitive 27 damages (which were not available). The district court cannot do indirectly what it is prohibited from doing 28 directly. 29 [Simpson v. Sheahan, 104 F.3d. 998, C.A.7 (Ill.) (1997)] 30 31 32 "It is axiomatic that the government cannot do indirectly (i.e. through funding decisions) what it cannot do 33 34 directly. [Com. of Mass. v. Secretary of Health and Human Services, 899 F.2d. 53, C.A.1 (Mass.) Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 100, 67 39 S.Ct. 556, 569, 91 L.Ed. 754 (1947). What the *78 First Amendment precludes the government**2739 from 40 commanding directly, it also precludes the government from accomplishing indirectly. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62, 110 S.Ct. 2729, U.S.Ill. (1990)] 44 45 "Similarly, numerous cases have held that governmental entities cannot do indirectly that which they cannot 46 47 do directly. See *841 Board of County Comm'rs v. Umbehr, 518 U.S. 668, 674, 116 S.Ct. 2342, 135 L.Ed.2d. 843 (1996) (holding that the First Amendment protects an independent contractor from termination or 48 49 prevention of the automatic renewal of his at-will government contract in retaliation for exercising his freedom of speech); El Dia, Inc. v. Rossello, 165 F.3d. 106, 109 (1st Cir.1999) (holding that a government 50 could not withdraw advertising from a newspaper which published articles critical of that administration 51 because it violated clearly established First Amendment law prohibiting retaliation for the exercising of 52 53 freedom of speech); North Mississippi Communications v. Jones, 792 F.2d. 1330, 1337 (5th Cir.1986) (same). The defendants violated clearly established Due Process and First Amendment law by boycotting the 54 plaintiffs' business in an effort to get them removed from the college." 55 [Kinney v. Weaver, 111 F.Supp.2d. 831, E.D.Tex. (2000)] 56

11 You have a right to define words on government forms or even make your own forms

The purpose of government forms is almost exclusively to create usually false presumptions that prejudice your status, 3 forfeit usually a Constitutional right, and connect you to some form of government franchise in the process. As we pointed 4 out earlier in section 8.1, presumptions about your status are a constitutional tort if engaged in by anyone from the 5 government. The Bible also makes presumptions a sin: 6

"But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings reproach on the Lord, and he shall be cut off from among his people. [Numbers 15:30, Bible, NKJV]

Those who are Christians therefore owe a duty God not to engage in presumptions and not to encourage, condone, or 10 participate in presumptions by others. Consequently, they have a corresponding duty and a RIGHT to define every word 11 that appears on any government form they fill out that is undefined or whose definition is not legally admissible as evidence 12 in order to prevent being victimized by presumptions about the meaning of words used on the form. This, we might add, is 13 not only an act of self defense, but a "religious practice" of all Christians who take their faith and God's law seriously and 14 which is protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. Why is this important? Because: 15

- The IRS says you can't and shouldn't rely on anything they publish or print, which means anything on any one of their 1. 16 forms or publications or on their website: 17

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position." [Internal Revenue Manual, Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

2. Private publications also confirm the above: 21

> p. 21: "As discussed in §2.3.3, the IRS is not bound by its statements or positions in unofficial pamphlets and publications."

- p. 34: "6. IRS Pamphlets and Booklets. The IRS is not bound by statements or positions in its unofficial publications, such as handbooks and pamphlets.
- p. 34: "7. Other Written and Oral Advice. Most taxpayers' requests for advice from the IRS are made orally. Unfortunately, the IRS is not bound by answers or positions stated by its employees orally, whether in person or by telephone. According to the procedural regulations, 'oral advice is advisory only and the Service is not bound to recognize it in the examination of the taxpayer's return.' 26 CFR §601.201(k)(2). In rare cases, however, the IRS has been held to be equitably estopped to take a position different from that stated orally to, and justifiably relied on by, the taxpayer. The Omnibus Taxpayer Bill of Rights Act, enacted as part of the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1988, gives taxpayers some comfort, however. It amended section 6404 to require the Service to abate any penalty or addition to tax that is attributable to advice furnished in writing by any IRS agent or employee acting within the scope of his official capacity. Section 6404 as amended protects the taxpayer only if the following conditions are satisfied: the written advice from the IRS was issued in response to a written request from the taxpayer; reliance on the advice was reasonable; and the error in the advice did not result from inaccurate or incomplete information having been furnished by the taxpayer. Thus, it will still be difficult to bind the IRS even to written statements made by its employees. As was true before, taxpayers may be penalized for following oral advice from the IRS." - 3. The courts have also repeatedly held that you cannot rely on anything a government employee tells you or which the government prints as a reasonable basis for belief.

"It is unfortunately all too common for government manuals, handbooks, and in-house publications to contain statements that were not meant or are not wholly reliable. If they go counter to governing statutes and regulations of the highest or higher dignity, e.g. regulations published in the Federal Register, they do not bind the government, and persons relving on them do so at their peril. Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. United

17		sequently, there is not reason to believe that you understand the meaning of words used on government forms and it is a
18	haz	ard to your liberty to allow or permit a government employee to ASSUME that they know what the words mean either.
19	Wo	rds that would fall into such a category include all the following "words of art", for instance:
	1
20	1.	"United States"
21	2.	"State"
22	3.	"income"
	4.	"employee"
23

25	6.	"trade or business"
26	7.	"wages"
27	8.	"gross income"

28		t even the Internal Revenue Code, in fact, counts as evidence upon which to base a belief about what the above words
29	me	an. 1 U.S.C. §204 indicates that the entire title is "prima facie evidence", which means that it is nothing more than a
30	"pr	esumption":
31		TITLE 1 > CHAPTER 3 > § 204
32		§ 204. Codes and Supplements as evidence of the laws of United States and District of Columbia; citation of
33		Codes and Supplements
24		In all courts, tribunals, and public offices of the United States, at home or abroad, of the District of Columbia,
34 35		and of each State, Territory, or insular possession of the United States—
55		and of each state, retritory, or insular possession of the onnea states—
36		(a) United States Code.—
37		The matter set forth in the edition of the Code of Laws of the United States current at any time shall, together
38		with the then current supplement, if any, establish prima facie the laws of the United States, general and
39		permanent in their nature, in force on the day preceding the commencement of the session following the last
40		session the legislation of which is included: Provided, however, That whenever titles of such Code shall have
41		been enacted into positive law the text thereof shall be legal evidence of the laws therein contained, in all the
42		courts of the United States, the several States, and the Territories and insular possessions of the United
43		States
44	Bel	ow is the definition of "prima facie":
45		" Prima facie . Lat. At first sight; on the first appearance; on the face of it; so far as can be judged from the
46		first disclosure; presumably; a fact presumed to be true unless disproved by some evidence to the contrary.
47		State ex rel. Herbert v. Whims, 68 Ohio.App. 39, 28 N.E.2d. 596, 599, 22 O.O. 110. See also Presumption"
48		[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1189]
40	Th	e courts have repeatedly held that presumptions are not evidence. Therefore anything that is "prima facie" is not
49
50	evı	dence and a court cannot by its own authority turn a presumption into evidence without violating due process of law:

This court has never treated a presumption as any form of evidence. See, e.g., A.C. Aukerman Co. v. R.L. Chaides Constr. Co., 960 F.2d. 1020, 1037 (Fed.Cir.1992) ("[A] presumption is not evidence."); see also Del Vecchio v. Bowers, 296 U.S. 280, 286, 56 S.Ct. 190, 193, 80 L.Ed. 229 (1935) ("[A presumption] cannot acquire the attribute of evidence in the claimant's favor."); New York Life Ins. Co. v. Gamer, 303 U.S. 161, 171, 58 S.Ct. 500, 503, 82 L.Ed. 726 (1938) ("[A] presumption is not evidence and may not be given weight as evidence."). Although a decision of this court, Jensen v. Brown, 19 F.3d. 1413, 1415 (Fed.Cir.1994), dealing with presumptions in VA law is cited for the contrary proposition, the Jensen court did not so decide.
[Routen v. West, 142 F.3d. 1434 C.A.Fed., 1998]

<sup>9</sup> The entire Internal Revenue Code, Title 26 is "statutory law", and anything that is a "statute" which creates presumption <sup>10</sup> that prejudices a constitutionally protected right is a violation of due process of law by the party imposing or enforcing the <sup>11</sup> statutory presumption to impair the rights of the litigants:

Statutes creating permanent irrebuttable presumptions have long been disfavored under the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. In Heiner v. Donnan, 285 U.S. 312, 52 S.Ct. 358, 76 L.Ed. 772 (1932), the Court was faced with a constitutional challenge to a federal statute that created a conclusive presumption that gifts made within two years prior to the donor's death were made in contemplation of death, thus requiring payment by his estate of a higher tax. In holding that this irrefutable assumption was so arbitrary and unreasonable as to deprive the taxpayer of his property without due process of law, the Court stated that it had 'held more than once that a statute creating a presumption which operates to deny a fair opportunity to rebut it violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.' Id., at 329, 52 S.Ct., at 362. See, e.g., Schlesinger v. Wisconsin, 270 U.S. 230, 46 S.Ct. 260, 70 L.Ed. 557 (1926); Hoeper v. Tax Comm'n, 284 U.S. 206, 52 S.Ct. 120, 76 L.Ed. 248 (1931). See also Tot v. United States, 319 U.S. 463, 468-469, 63 S.Ct. 1241, 1245-1246, 87 L.Ed. 1519 (1943); Leary v. United States, 395 U.S. 6, 29-53, 89 S.Ct. 1532, 1544-1557, 23 L.Ed.2d. 57 (1969). Cf. Turner v. United States, 396 U.S. 398, 418-419, 90 S.Ct. 642, 653-654, 24 L.Ed.2d. 610 (1970).
 [Vlandis v. Kline, 412 U.S. 441 (1973)]

Furthermore, the statutes that predated the Internal Revenue Code were all repealed when the Internal Revenue Code was first enacted in 1939. 53 Stat. 1, Section 4. See also:

Therefore, the Statutes at Large prior to the enactment of the Internal Revenue Code in 1939 are also unreliable and not admissible as evidence of what the words mean because they are all repealed. Therefore, there is NO basis at all, even within any statute, upon which to base a "reasonable belief" about what the words appearing on tax forms REALLY mean! If you would like to learn more about what the government and the legal profession themselves say about this monumental scam and why the tax system is really little more than a state-sponsored religion regulating tithes to a state-sponsored church, see:

- Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
- Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Anyone who would therefore take a tax form that not even the IRS will guarantee the accuracy of and sign it under penalty of perjury as being truthful and accurate is a DAMN FOOL without at least defining each and every critical "word of art" appearing on the form in an attachment, and making the attachment an inseparable part of the form. Below is an example of a MANDATORY attachment that every member of this ministry must attach to any government tax form they fill out and submit which satisfies this purpose. We would argue that anyone who is a Christian owes a duty to God to attach the above form in order to prevent the sin of presumption on anyone's part, and especially their own:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

44 We therefore assert that:

- Everyone has a right of self-defense. Implicit in that right is the right to define the meaning of what you say or put on government forms to prevent being injured by what you said or wrote.
- 47 2. The First Amendment guarantees us a right to:

2.1. Speak

- 2.2. Not speak.
- 2.3. Define the intended meaning and significance of every word that we speak.
- 3. It is an unalienable right protected by the First Amendment to define and declare the MEANING and significance of every word that proceeds out of their mouth. Only the Creator of a thing can define its significance and relationship to the hearer or recipient of the thing. No one may interfere with that right by redefining the words to contradict the definition or meaning intended by the speaker.
- 8 4. The moment that the hearer defines the speech to have a meaning not intended by the speaker or in conflict with the 9 way the speaker defined it is the minute that:
  - 4.1. The speech ceases to be the responsibility or property of the "speaker".
  - 4.2. The hearer at that point then becomes exclusively responsible and the "owner" of their false perception of the speech and the speaker then ceases to have any liability for the reaction of the hearer to the speech.
- 5. The only occasion where the hearer can have a reason or motive to define the words used by the speaker is when the speaker does not define them him or her self.
- 6. In law rights are property and anything that creates rights is property. If speech is abused by the hearer to create legal rights against you by attributing a status or intention to you that you did not have, then they are depriving you of the use of your property using your own speech, which is your property. The very essence of owning "property" is the right to exclude others from using or benefitting or enjoying it and to control HOW people use it. It's not your speech or your "property" if:
  - 6.1. You can't even define whether it is even factual and therefore reliable.
  - 6.2. You can't control how, when, or by whom it is used to advantage.
  - 6.3. You can't prevent others from using it against you.
- 7. It is an interference with your First Amendment right and an injury for anyone to interfere with your efforts to define the words you use, and especially on government forms by either penalizing you for defining the meaning of the words or refusing to accept the form that includes definitions because:
  - 7.1. They are interfering with your religious practice by forcing you to either engage in presumption, which is a sin, or in encouraging others to engage in the sin.
  - 7.2. They have deprived you of the right to communicate in the way you see fit. The essence of having a right is that its exercise cannot be regulated or interfered with or else it isn't a right but a privilege.

The IRS obviously knows the above, which is why they publish specifications on how you can make your OWN forms as substitute for theirs. As an example, see:

IRS Form W-8 Instructions for Requester of Forms W-8BEN, W-8ECI, W-8EXp, and W-8IMF, Catalog 26698G http://sedm.org/Forms/Tax/W-8BEN/IRSFormW-8Inst-RequesterOfForms-0506.pdf

12 You have a right to define the meaning of the perjury statement as an extension of your right to contract

Signing a perjury statement not only constitutes the taking of an oath, but also constitutes the conveying of consent to be held accountable for the accuracy and truthfulness of what appears on the form. It therefore constitutes an act of contracting that conveys consent and rights to the government to hold you accountable for the accuracy of what is on the form. Governments are created to protect your right to contract and the Constitution forbids them from interfering with or impairing the exercise of that inalienable right. Governments are created to ensure that every occasion you give consent or contract is not coerced.

&quot;Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to impair contracts, by direct action to that end, does not exist with the general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the prohibition upon the States [in

1	Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of contracts, which has ever been
2	recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition is not applied in terms to the
3	government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and the majority of the court at
4	the time, that it was clear 'that those who framed and those who adopted the Constitution intended that the
5	spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that the justice which the
6	Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with legislation [or judicial
7	precedent] of an opposite tendency.' 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are found expressed in the
8	opinions of other judges of this court."
9	[ Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878)]
10	The presence of coercion, penalties, or duress of any kind in the process of giving consent renders the contract
11	unenforceable and void.
12	"An agreement [consensual contract] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party
13	coerced is not exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to
14	execute the agreement as the state of mind induced. $^{12}$ Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except
15	where a contract or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress
16	renders the contract or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced, $^{13}$ and it is
17	susceptible of ratification. Like other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to
18	avoid it. <sup>14</sup> However, duress in the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent
19	when he has no intention of doing so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void. <sup>15</sup> "
20	[American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, Section 21]
21	Any instance where you are required to give consent cannot be coerced or subject to penalty and must therefore be
22	voluntary. Any penalty or threat of penalty in specifying the terms under which you provide your consent is an interference or impairment with your right to contract. This sort of unlawful interference with your right to contract happens all the time 23
24	when the IRS illegally penalizes people for specifying the terms under which they consent to be held accountable on a tax
25	form.
26	The perjury statement found at the end of nearly every IRS Form is based on the content of 28 U.S.C. §1746:
27	TITLE 20 > DADT U > CHADTED 115 > 8 1746
27 28	TITLE 28 &gt; PART V &gt; CHAPTER 115 &gt; § 1746 §1746. Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury
28	§1740. Onsworn accurations under pendity of perfury
29	Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made
30	pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the
31	sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the
32	same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official
33	other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or
34	proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is
35	subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:
36	(1) If executed without the United States: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury
37	under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).
38	(Signature)".
	(~
39	(2) If executed within the United States, its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: "I declare (or certify,
40	verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).
41	(Signature)".
42	The term "United States" as used above means the territories and possessions of the United States and the District of Columbia and excludes states of the Union mentioned in the Constitution. Below is the perjury statement found on the IRS
44	Form 1040 and 1040NR:

44

45

46

You are a "taxpayer". Notice it uses the words "(other than taxpayer)". The implication is that you can't use any standard IRS Form WITHOUT being a "nontaxpayer". As a consequence, signing any standard IRS Form makes you a "taxpayer" and a "resident alien". See:

0	a axpayer and a resident anen : see.
	Who are "Taxpayers" and Who Needs a "Taxpayer Identification Number"?, Form #05.013

The perjury statement indicated in 28 U.S.C. §1746(2) is assumed and established, which means that you are creating a presumption that you maintain a domicile on federal territory.

Those who want to avoid committing perjury under penalty of perjury by correcting the IRS form to reflect the fact that they are not a "taxpayer" and are not within the "United States" face an even bigger hurdle. If they try to modify the perjury statement to conform with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), frequently the IRS or government entity receiving the form will try to penalize them for modifying the form. The penalty is usually $500 for modifying the jurat. This leaves them with the unpleasant prospect of choosing the lesser of the following two evils:

- 1. Committing perjury under penalty of perjury by misrepresenting themselves as a resident of the federal zone and destroying their sovereignty immunity in the process pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1603(b).
- <sup>18</sup> 2. Changing the jurat statement, being the object of a $500 penalty, and then risking having them reject the form.

How do we work around the above perjury statement at the end of most IRS Forms in order to avoid either becoming a "resident" of the federal "United States" or a presumed "taxpayer"? Below are a few examples of how to do this:

1. You can write a statement above the signature stating "signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT and all enclosures" and then on the attachment, redefine the ENTIRE perjury statement:

23		"IRS frequently and illegally penalizes parties not subject to their jurisdiction such as 'nontaxpayers" who
24		attempt to physically modify language on their forms. They may only lawfully administer penalties to public
25		officers and not private persons, because the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private
26		conduct is 'repugnant to the constitution'. I, as a private person and a 'nontaxpayer' not subject to IRS
27		penalties, am forced to create this attachment because I would be committing perjury if I signed the form as it is
28		without making the perjury statement consistent with my circumstances as indicated in 28 U.S.C. §1746.
29		Therefore, regardless of what the perjury statement says on your form, here is what I define the words in your
30		perjury statement paragraph to mean:
31		"Under penalties of perjury from without the 'United States" pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I declare that
32		I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and
33		belief, they are true, correct, and complete. I declare that I am a 'nontaxpayer' not subject to the Internal
34		Revenue Code, not domiciled in the 'United States', and not participating in a 'trade or business' and that it is
35		a Constitutional tort to enforce the I.R.C. against me. I also declare that any attempt to use the content of this
36		form to enforce any provision of the I.R.C. against me shall render everything on this form as religious and
37		political statements and beliefs rather than facts which are not admissible as evidence pursuant to Fed. Rul. Ev.
38		610.
39		If you attempt to penalize me, you will be penalizing a person for refusing to commit perjury and will become
40		an accessory to a conspiracy to commit perjury."
41	2	You can write a statement above the signature stating "signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT
42		and all enclosures" and then attach the following form:
		Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
		http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
43	3.	You can make your own form or tax return and use whatever you want on the form. They can only penalize persons
-13	5.	Tou cun make your own form of any retain and use whatever you want on the form. They can only penalize persons

3. You can make your own form or tax return and use whatever you want on the form. They can only penalize persons who use THEIR forms. If you make your own form, you can penalize THEM for misusing YOUR forms or the information on those forms. This is the approach taken by the following form. - <sup>2</sup> This section summarizes the findings of this document:
- 1. The foundation of all free government is the consent of the governed, according to the Declaration of independence.

"That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." [Declaration of Independence]

- 2. The consent of the governed is the origin of the great divide between civil and criminal law:
  - 2.1. Criminal laws do not require your consent to enforce. If you hurt someone, then you are subject to the criminal laws whether you have a domicile in the forum or not.
    - 2.2. Civil laws require a choice of domicile within the jurisdiction of a specific government in order to enforce against you. Enforcing the civil laws against persons not domiciled within a jurisdiction can and often does result in a violation of due process of law and a void judgment.
  - 3. Choosing a domicile within a specific government is how one:
  - 3.1. Becomes a "subject" under the civil law.
    - 3.2. Surrenders sovereign immunity pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §1603(b)(3).
    - 3.3. Changes their status from a "nonresident" to a "citizen" or "resident".
    - 3.4. Changes their status from a "transient foreigner" to a "person" or "inhabitant".
- 4. Examples of civil disputes that are governed by civil law from one's voluntary choice of domicile include:
  - 4.1. Marriage licenses.
  - 4.2. Income tax.
  - 4.3. Contract disputes.
  - 4.4. Government benefits, such as Social Security, Medicare, Unemployment, etc.
- 5. The right to make determinations about or changes in the civil status of someone originates from one's voluntary choice of domicile. See the above.
- 5.1. That authority is delegated to a specific government by your choice of domicile.

26		"It is plain that every state has the right to determine the status or domestic or social condition of persons
27		domiciled within its territory." Hunt v. Hunt, 72 N. Y. 217, 227; Strader v. Graham, 10 How. 82. "Every nation
28		may determine the status of its own domiciled subjects, and any interference by foreign tribunals would be
29		an officious intermeddling with a matter in which they have no concern. The parties cannot consent to the
30		change of status, and the judgment is not binding in a third country." Black, Jur. § 77. When the Texas
31		proceeding was instituted the respondent and her child were transiently in that state, upon a temporary
32		occasion, and with the intention of returning to their domicile in New York. "Though a state may have a right
33		to declare the condition of all persons within her limits, the right only exists while that person remains there.
34		She has not the power of giving a condition or status that will adhere to the person everywhere, but upon his
35		return to his place of domicile he will occupy his former position." Maria v. Kirby, 12 B.Mon. 542, 545,- a
36		case in which the decision is an adjudication of the precise point in controversy.

- 45 7. When you are physically in a state or jurisdiction other than the one in which you are domiciled, all status declarations
   46 made by the state or government at the place of your domicile are nonbinding on the foreign jurisdiction that you are 47 physically in.
  - 8. The words you use to describe and declare your status in a legal setting may be characterized as:

- 8.1. An exercise of your right to politically associate protected by the First Amendment.
- 8.2. An exercise of your right to contract protected by Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution if the status carries with it obligations under any system of civil law.
- 8.3. An exercise of your right to speak, to not speak, and to define the significance of the words you use that is protected by the First Amendment.
- 9. Any attempt by an officer or agent of the government to describe you with any civil status other than what you describe yourself under the civil law or to enforce any of the legal obligations associated with that status constitutes:
  - 9.1. Involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.
  - 9.2. A violation of your right to contract, by compelling you to contract with the party who is advantaged by the status.
  - 9.3. Compelled association, by compelling you to associate politically, legally, or both with the "state" or government associated with that status.
- 10. You can declare or acquire a new status:

- 10.1. Expressly either in writing or vocally. For instance, they could fill out a government application for benefits and thereby declare themselves to be a franchisee under the laws that administer the franchise.
  - 10.2. Impliedly by their decision to accept a government "benefit".

CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS PART 2. CONTRACTS CHAPTER 3. CONSENT Section 1589 1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

- 11. Once you acquire a given legal status under the terms of a franchise or contract, that status can be changed usually only with:
  - 11.1. The consent of all parties consistent with the contract or franchise itself.
  - 11.2. For a misrepresentation to be demonstrated by a party to the contract and to demonstrate an injury to that party which warrants termination of the contract for fraud.
  - 11.3. One or more parties demonstrating the existence of duress.

"An agreement [consensual contract] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the agreement as the state of mind induced.<sup>16</sup> Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced, <sup>17</sup> and it is susceptible of ratification. Like other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it.<sup>18</sup> However, duress in the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void.<sup>19</sup>" [American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, Section 21]

12. A contract which conveys a new status is not enforceable unless it conveys MUTUAL consideration or benefits and obligations to both parties. If only one party receives consideration, then the change of status cannot be considered enforceable.

Contract. An agreement between two or more [sovereign] persons which creates an obligation to do or not to do a particular thing. As defined in Restatement, Second, Contracts §3: "A contract is a promise or a set of promises for the breach of which the law gives a remedy, or the performance of which the law in some way recognizes as a duty." 12	13. In law, all government franchises behave as contracts:
13	As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon
14	valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit, $20$ and thus a franchise
15	partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be
16 17	granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in
18	exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But
19	when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental
20	control growing out of its other nature as publici juris. <sup>21</sup>
21	[Am.Jur.2d, Franchises, §4: Generally]
22	14. All government franchises are enforced with civil law. Therefore:
22	14.1. You cannot maintain a specific status under a franchise agreement without also having a domicile within the
23	jurisdiction of the government grantor of the franchise.
25	14.2. It is a violation of due process of law and of the Minimum Contacts Doctrine to enforce franchises against parties
26	domiciled outside of the territory of the government grantor of the franchise.
20	14.3. Any government enforcing the terms of a franchise against nonresident parties must satisfy the Minimum
28	Contacts Doctrine against the object of their enforcement.
29	15. Those wishing to challenge a status determination of a government agent or officer in conflict with their wishes may
30	challenge that determination by showing that:
31	15.1. One or more of the parties to the contract or franchise lacked the capacity to enter into the contract because, for
32	instance, they were either not sui juris or had no delegated authority to do so if they were acting in a representative capacity on behalf of another.
33
34	15.2. They are injured by the status.
35	15.3. Duress existed in the contract or application that gave rise to the status.
36	15.4. No consideration was conveyed which made the contract enforceable that gave rise to the change in status.
