After a careful examination, it becomes evident that debt does not fuel economy, it stifles it. It does not nurture growth, it stunts and poisons it. Extreme debt is a fundamental organ in a body of commerce; it is an aberration, a growing cancer which disrupts the circulation of healthy trade. Debt is, in itself, unnecessary.

Therefore, debt can be very useful if you are the controller or determining factor of a system, especially if you wish to centralize and maintain power in that system. The tactical wielding of debt has been used by elites for centuries as a means to imprison the masses, or to create an atmosphere of dependency. Lets take a look at what debt really is, and how it is being used against the average American today...

Banks do Not issue Loans and none of their own, nor their depositor's, monies. They risk nothing. They devalue the dollar by using the accounting technique of creating new money, which adds to (ie, waters down, devalues) the current money in circulation.

The process used by banks when they issue a loan is: 1) debit Notes Receivable (asset account) and 2) credit Deposits (liability account). Did you notice they don't issue credit cash? Interesting, don't you think? This information is found in the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago's publication, "Modern Money Mechanics." This process applies to all bank loans, whether it is personal credit or a commercial line of credit, home mortgage, home equity line of credit -- in fact, anytime a bank lends any form of credit, in any capacity!

Very different from you asking for a loan from a friend or family member, who may have saved and scrimped their whole life to accumulate the money. The money you borrow from them was not "created" by an accounting entry. This process applies to a Land Sale Contract, which is done outside, and without the involvement of, banks or mortgage lenders.

Hard debt elimination is made possible by understanding the basic rules of commerce and staying in honor with full integrity.

Were all parties apprised that said alleged contract was a private credit instrument?, etc.

eliminate credit card debt by using well placed questions which challenge the creditor's answer to you; not the other way around. You're the one in charge.

Party Debt Collector? Tell them Eliminate their Contract with You

When there is no agreement, no contract, with the third party debt collector. When you learned of the alleged debt, you may have been informed that your creditor has the right to assign the account; however, according to contract law, they have to disclose the actual party they would be assigning the contract to at the time of the inception of the contract. This is because YOU, the other party to the contract, have the right to accept or reject, a third party. The contract was between two original parties, you and the original creditor. A third party debt collector is acting as an unauthorized intervenor. When the original creditor sells and/or assigns your account to a 3rd party, it is nullifying the original contract. It has received "accord and satisfaction," by selling the account and taking a credit against its taxes. It may have also filed an insurance claim against your account.

Because Tom owes Dick does NOT mean that Harry can collect from Tom. At least, not without Tom's permission. Credit card debt elimination can be accomplished by understanding that contract law and the basic, common sense principles of human relating are actually identical.
